

-----Original Message-----

Sent: 18 September 2020 13:44

To: Info <info@raunds-tc.gov.uk>

Subject: Pancreatic Cancer Day

I am making enquiries to see if you would agree to support Pancreatic Cancer Day by lighting up your buildings with Purple lights on Nov.21st.

We have lived in Raunds since 1972 & on Nov 21st last year my husband was diagnosed with Pancreatic Cancer. Unfortunately, it was a late diagnosis & after 3 cycles of Chemo in the spring nothing could be done. He passed away at home on July 14th.

I support Pancreatic Cancer Action which hopes to increase the chances of better survival rates by early diagnosis, but the date is significant to all Pancreatic charities. Many towns & cities go Purple & I am hoping it is something that can happen in Raunds please.

I will be asking the Churches if they can also go Purple.....

From Pancreatic Cancer UK

Purple Lights for pancreatic cancer

Taking place on World Pancreatic Cancer Day - 19th November – Purple Lights for pancreatic cancer involves lighting up your own home or contacting a prominent landmark in your local area to light up purple so as to put a spotlight on a disease that deserves more recognition.

The act of lighting up a home or focal point in a village, town or city is a way to remember loved ones who have sadly died of pancreatic cancer and to acknowledge those living with or beyond the disease. It might not be possible to light up landmarks this year, so we are encouraging you to focus on lighting up your home purple. We've collated lots of creative ideas of how to do this over on our dedicated website.

